RETT CAN'T Stop Joy.

For all the things Rett Syndrome can do, there are even more that it can't do. It can't take away our hope, our joy, our love for one another. And it can't stop us from searching every day for a cure.

US GIVE UP.

RELENT LESSLY DRIVEN

I thought we were rocks. No matter what Rett brought we would withstand because we were strong. But it kept coming. Wave after wave of disappointment and heartache crashing against us. Eroding us. Defeating us.

And then it happened. We found community. We found encouragement. We saw advancements in research. And then I realized we weren't rocks. We are the waves. And Rett is the rocks. And though it seems immovable it is crumbling every day. And be it pebbles or boulders it will not withstand the waves forever. Because we are relentless. And we will find a cure.

Born in Georgia.

I didn't want to plan it out. I wanted to be stretched — to continue letting God shape my life. Choosing Multnomah allowed me to have that experience and discover far beyond how He wants to use me to make a difference in the world.
